

Membership in PaleoCultural Research Group

PCRG is a non-profit membership organization dedicated to conducting scientific research and promoting public education in archaeology and related natural sciences within the Great Plains and adjacent regions. PCRG brings together a diverse group of specialists, students, and non-specialists who share a desire to collaborate on projects of mutual interest.

PCRG membership is open to the public. Two membership categories are available:

Participating Members include students, professional scientists, and other interested individuals who carry out specific research and educational activities, working in flexible combinations as required for specific projects. Families with two or more participating members can save money with a Household Participating Membership.

Supporting Members include people who support the goals and activities of the organization and who wish to be informed about current activities of the organization, but who are not able to participate directly in the activities of the group. Families with two or more supporting members can save money with a Household Supporting Membership.

All Participating and Supporting Members receive a report summarizing recent and ongoing PCRG projects at least once a year. Participating Members receive additional communications concerning project concepts, projects under development, and opportunities for participation.
